Dr Nadja Alexander is Academic Director of the Singapore International Dispute Resolution Academy and Professor of Law at Singapore Management University.

A recognised thought leader in the field of mediation, Nadja is a multi-award winning author and educator, having taught dispute resolution in legal, corporate and development settings around the world. She is editor of the Global Trends in Dispute Resolution book series and the Kluwer Mediation Blog. Her book and papers have been published in English, German, Chinese, Russian and Arabic.

Nadja has advised on mediation policy to international bodies, such as the World Bank Group, and national governments and corporates in Europe, Asia, Australia and Africa. As a dispute resolution practitioner and consultant, she has been engaged in more than 30 countries.

In addition to her role in Singapore, Nadja is a Senior Fellow of the Dispute Resolution Institute at Mitchell Hamline School of Law, The United States and Honorary Professor at the University of Queensland, Australia. She has been involved with the International Mediation Institute since its inception in 2007. She has studied law in Australia, Germany, Austria and the United States.